Dear Sir/Madam,

I have just started a building digital platform about "Antenna Technology".

Anten IO : Digital Platform All About Antennas (in Beta Testing right now)

In the site I am advertising technical books related to "Antennas" by giving their abstract and table of contents grabbed from your site.

Currently I added some of Springer books meanwhile realizing need for permission.

Since my website is kind of personal blog and does not share any further contents besides abstract and TOC, I am kindly requesting from you official permission to including them.

Thanks for your help. Best regards.

Hello Hüseyin YİĞİT,

Thank you for your e-mail.

We do have some questions:

- will this platform link to our books, or just uses our images and abstracts for content?
- how much material will you be using?
- which Springer Nature titles do you have in mind?
- where will you be getting the abstracts and images from?
- what are the longer term plans for this app?

Looking forward to hearing from you.

With kind regards,

Alice Essenpreis

Dear Madam,

Thanks for your kindly quick response.

Here below you can answers to your questions:

- will this platform link to our books, or just uses our images and abstracts for content?

(Please visit Website and click on one of the books)

You see, platform directly links to your site as publisher and Amazon site as reseller.

- how much material will you be using?

Book cover, abstract and table of contents

- which Springer Nature titles do you have in mind?

Antenna Engineering related books

- where will you be getting the abstracts and images from?

Abstract and Table of Contents are taken from your public-open site. Appropriate resolution media is searched through the web for cover image.

- what are the longer term plans for this app?

Since it is a free platform, I'd like to publish Antenna Engineering related contents as long as I can afford.

Looking forward to hear good news from you.

Best regards,
