Dear Sir/Madam,

I have just started a building single page web app that lists books related to "Antenna Technology".

<https://antennabooks.github.io/>

In the site I am advertising technical books related to "Antennas" by giving their abstract and table of contents grabbed from your site.

Currently I added some of IET books meanwhile realizing need for permission.

Since my website is kind of personal blog and does not share any further contents besides abstract and TOC, I am kindly requesting from you official permission to including them.

In order to clarify and summarize;

- I'll want to use book cover, abstract and table of contents of the books related to "Antenna Engineering". These contents are taken from your publicly available website.
- I am not distributing any chapter or text from book.
- I always give link to publisher (your site) and reseller (Amazon).
- You can visit my site to see what I am sharing (Please visit Website and click on one of the books)
- My website serve as non-commercial.

I really appreciate if you can grant me to use contents I requested. Your Copyright issues will be always preserved.

Recently same permission is granted from "Springer" for my site, and other publisher's response is also pending.

Thanks for your help. Best regards,

Hüseyin Yiğit

Dear Hüseyin Yiğit,

Thank you for your email.

Permission isn't needed as titles/ToCs and abstracts are not considered reuse of 'content' and are covered by fair-use policy.

Thank you for checking.

With kind regards,

Louise de Lappe
